

WINSTON

Author/Former White House Director of Speechwriting

Chriss A. Winston was the first woman to head the White House Office of Speechwriting as Deputy Assistant to the President for Communications and Director of Speech Writing for President George H.W. Bush. Today, Mrs. Winston is a director of the White House Writers Group and heads her own communications consultancy, CorporateWord. She is the author of four books, including the recently-published “How to Raise an American.” Mrs. Winston lives near Washington, D.C., with her husband and son.